Columbus State University's Day of Service

BY MIKE HASKEY

No task seemed too big or small for volunteers from Columbus State University who spread across the community Saturday morning during a "Day of Service."

Working through the United Way of the Chattahoochee Valley Volunteer Center, student, faculty and staff volunteers tackled a variety of service projects at 10 sites throughout Columbus in honor of the inauguration of Tim McQuinn as CSU president.

Projects included clearing a lot for a new Habitat for Humanity home, renovating baseball fields for the North Columbus Boys and Girls Club and creating a year-round vegetable garden at the East Columbus Boys and Girls Club.

Volunteers concluded their day with a picnic lunch at the Mock Pavilion. For video of the event, go to video: ledger-enquirer.com.
